This CPD event for Mediation Supervisors takes place over two sessions for Relationships Scotland members, participants are expected to attend both sessions.

Session1: Group supervision offers opportunities for learning and growth as a practitioner. Being an effective group supervisor is a balancing act that requires skill. In this session we will consider the purpose and function of Group Supervision and a range of different approaches.

We will also consider the theories that underpin good practice, the importance of clear contracting and will explore the challenge of balancing the task of the group versus group process.

Session 2: This is a learning forum. Mediation supervisors will explore the learning from the Group Supervision session and will have the opportunity to take part in a group supervision session.

Learning Outcomes: By the end of the day(s) participants will be able to:

- Describe the purpose and functions of Group Supervision.
- Identify the theories that underpin good practice and compare a range of approaches to group supervision.
- Consider the importance of clear contracting and the group task versus the group process.
- Describe how group supervision can impact their own supervision practice.

Presenter: Mhairi Canning is the Registration and Supervision Manager at Relationships Scotland. She oversees registration and provides support for supervision in the network. She is a qualified and experienced trainer. She has been a Relationship Counsellor since 1997 and a Supervisor since 2004. She has a small private practice.
